H.M.S. DAUNTLESS IN PORT TO-DAY FROM WEST INDIES BASE

British Cruiser Will Remain in Esquimalt Harbor for a Week and Will Return Again July 18 for Further Stay Prior to Sailing for Bermuda; Ship Will Be Open for Inspection on Saturday and Sunday; Cruise to Northern Waters.

The navy came into its own again to-day with the arrival at Esquimalt of H.M.S. Dauntless on a visit from the West Indies.

Once more the streets of the city resound to the measured tread of jolly Jack Tars getting shore bearings after a long period at sea.

The trim light cruiser and her complement will remain on the coast for six weeks and will go as far north as Alaska before setting out on her return voyage to Bermuda.

Every year a unit of the British North Atlantic squadron is sent out on the North Pacific patrol and the selection this year fell to the Dauntless.

LONG VOYAGE
The warship has steamed 10,000 miles since she left England on April 8 last and is now making her first voyage to the Pacific.

The Dauntless, which is capable of a sea speed of twenty-nine knots, slipped around the Race and at an economical gait steamed past the Flashed Light and fetched up smartly at the dockyard jetty in Esquimalt harbor.

The ship's complement lined the starboard rail as she came alongside. When all had been made fast at 11 o'clock, the welcoming of the ship was in order.

Commander Leonard Murray, senior naval officer at the Esquimalt dockyard, greeted Capt. H. R. Moore, D.S.O., commander of the cruiser.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION
The ship will be thrown open for inspection on Saturday and Sunday next, it was announced by Commander Murray following the arrival of the cruiser to-day.

The hours for inspection by the general public will be from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock each afternoon.

On both days arrangements will be made for the citizens of Victoria and district to secure free access to the dockyard and also to the jetty where the vessel is moored.

NORTH CHINA ARMY MOVES ON TSHINAN

Great Gains Against Nanking Government Forces Are Claimed

30,000 Nationalist Soldiers Stated to Have Been Disarmed

Peiping, China, May 2.—A general advance of Northern armies into the province of Honan following a vigorous offensive launched the night of May 20 was claimed in Chinese official dispatches published in war extras to-night.

These reports stated northern cavalry in a surprise attack had captured twelve pursuit planes, believed to be the entire Nanking Nationalist air force, on the Honan front. Fifty pilots and mechanics were taken prisoners.

The northern forces were stated to have reached a point about fifty miles to the east of Kaifeng.

At the same time the Shaanxi army of the Northern Alliance was reported to be crossing the Yellow River in force to attack the important city of Tsinan, the fall of which was predicted here.

AGED CONVICT INVENTS PLANE PROPELLER AND ASKS RELEASE

Joliet, Ill., June 2.—John King, an aged convict here, inventor of an air-plane propeller of revolutionary design, has refused all monetary offers, insisting that when society releases him from prison it will receive the benefits of his discovery. Henry Ford and the Guggenheim Foundation have communicated with him about the propeller.

The original idea for his invention came in a dream, according to King. He worked for five years on plans. His discovery is a multiple propeller designed to utilize every ounce of horsepower, giving ninety per cent efficiency instead of forty per cent as

ADVERTISING WOULD WELD EMPIRE FIRM

Canadian Club Hears Appeal For Closer Economic Links in Empire

Major L. A. M. Jones Says Publicity Can Bring Vast British Capital to Canada

"There is a real danger to-day of the economic disintegration of the British Empire. Powerful disruptive forces are at work to bring this about. That this should be so when a cure for the situation lies at our very doors, is a curious anomaly. There is enough money available for investment in England to set Canadian industry on its feet and bring prosperity to the empire as a whole. It is lying idle in the English banks because of the dense ignorance of the unique possibilities offered by the Canadian stock and industrial markets which prevails among British business men and British investors."

This view of empire trade conditions was advanced this afternoon by Major L. A. M. Jones, of The London Morning Post, in an address given before the Canadian Club at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel which was attended by seventy members. P. B. Fowler, president, occupied the chair.

"Canada must put a true picture of herself before the British public. The success of such an effort is not problematical. It is certain. It is a fact that every British firm which has started business in the right way in Canada is to-day a successful going concern. Let this be but realized in England, and many other big firms will follow suit. They will be only too glad to do so," Major Jones said, pointing out that while residents of the empire, outside the British Isles, total 20,000,000, or about three to the square mile.

NOTABLE OPPORTUNITY
The empire is for the most part unexplored. Complete economic union between the Dominions and the Old Country may no longer be possible.

UNEMPLOYED GO PROSPECTING

Sydney, N.S.W., June 2.—Departure of 150 men on certain duties to search for gold marked inauguration to-day of the government's scheme to promote gold prospecting among unemployed prospectors.

The government supplied camping outfits and tools and appointed five geological surveyors to visit the zones in which the men will be working and give technical advice. The men are given free railway transportation and an allowance of twenty shillings (about $5 weekly).

KING'S BIRTHDAY PUBLIC HOLIDAY

TURNER RETIRING

London, June 2.—The London Evening Star to-day said it had learned that Mr. Benjamin Turner, Minister of Mines, had handed his resignation to Premier MacDonald.

The impending retirement from the Cabinet of Ben Turner, picturesque trades unionist, was reported on May 8. It was said he desired to give all his time to the miners' organization, with which he has been associated for many years.

"There is no doubt," the newspaper added, "that the Prime Minister will consent to the release of his colleague and friend for this purpose."

The newspaper forecast also a number of other changes in the Cabinet, but added there appeared no justification for current rumors of the transfer of Mr. H. H. Thompson, Lord Privy Seal, in charge of unemployment matters, to some other department.

NEW FIELDS FOR TRADE SUGGESTED

Douglas S. Cole, Trade Commissioner, Tells of B.C.'s Opportunities

Strawberries, Honey and Tobacco Have Good Chance on U.K. Market

Vancouver Island has ideal conditions for strawberry growing and the time will come when it will go in for strawberry exporting in a big way.

British Columbia honey would be a good competitor against the New Zealand product on the British market.

British Columbia grows fine quality tobacco and by insuring a continuity of supply and rigid standardization, a large volume of trade could be built up in this commodity.

Douglas S. Cole, Canadian trade commissioner to the west of England, the Midlands and Wales, suggested these three avenues for the development of this Province's export trade in addressing a joint luncheon of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Kiwanis and Cyro Clubs at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Mr. Cole reviewed concisely the trade situation between Canada and the United Kingdom, giving especially British Columbia's aspect and discussed opportunities of the future briefly.

TAX SITUATION
First, he outlined the English situation, with its 1,600,000 unemployed, its adverse trade balance and its heavy income and super taxes. Opposed to this pessimistic viewpoint were the invisible returns to the country, such as the revenue from capital investment abroad, from steamship services, insurance and other items. There was really a lot of money in the Old Country, but manufacturers were having a hard time owing to the taxes and due to the (Continued on Page 17)

KING HONORS AMY JOHNSON

London, June 2.—Amy Johnson, attractive British girl who became a national heroine on the recent completion of her flight from England to Australia, is awarded the honor of Commander of the Order of the British Empire in the King's birthday honors list.

London, June 2.—Frederick M. Bentley, self-poisoned and confessed embezzler, died in the Vancouver General Hospital at 4 p.m. Sunday, closing a chapter of civic defilements which in four weeks has sent one man to his death and one to prison, with another awaiting trial, a fourth having paid a heavy fine, another on remand for hearing and three others dismissed from the civic employ.

The inquiry, conducted by a select aldermanic committee, at which the defilements were disclosed, started May 12 and is continuing to-day.

BENTLEY CHIEF CLERK
Bentley, employed as chief clerk in the scavenging department of the city, faced with discrepancies in his collections on Monday of last week, took a large dose of bichloride of mercury, which resulted in his death Sunday. Last Tuesday he confessed to have diverted to his own use approximately $200 of city money a month for a period of six years.

RESHUFFLING OF CABINET IN BRITAIN

Expected Number of Changes in Posts Will Be Announced To-morrow

London, June 2.—Several British newspapers to-day said an announcement of important changes in the MacDonald Cabinet might be announced with publication of honors to be bestowed on the occasion of King George's birthday to-morrow.

Some reports were that the changes would be extensive and would amount to a reshuffling of the Cabinet. It was generally expected posts would be found for at least two or three back benchers. The changes were said to have been decided upon at a meeting of Mr. MacDonald, Rt. hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Rt. hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Minister, and other members of the Cabinet at Chequers yesterday.

Cruising over Victoria with its riding lights twinkling like stars in the sky, the Alaskan, a large amphibian plane owned by the Gord Air Transport Line, Seattle, made a perfect landing in the Inner Harbor last night after a flight on Saturday morning, arriving at 9:10 o'clock, with Verne Olsen, the owner, Pilot Howard and a party of four from Seattle on a specially chartered trip. The party returned by air to Seattle on Sunday morning. Starboard and port lights, and a clear white tail light marked the course of the plane for observers as it passed over the city to its landing.

THIS IS THE LATEST IN AVIATION WORLD

Above is pictured Henry "Buddy" Bushmeyer, daring parachute jumper of Roosevelt Field, N.Y., with his newest invention, which he calls "The Angel Machine." It consists of a miniature airplane propeller and a tiny gasoline engine that a parachutist can strap to his chest and turn on while in mid-air, the propeller pulling him forward at twenty miles an hour while the jumper's hand is extended to the airstream behind him to form the rudder. The date for the first attempt has not yet been set nor have the palmbearers been named, but all other arrangements are complete.

LIBERALS SEE KAMLOOPS AS TURNING POINT

Changing Political Trend in B.C. Reflected at Enthusiastic Convention

Unpopularity of Tolmie Government Looms as Big Factor in Dominion Campaign

Kamloops marks a definite turning point in the fortunes and outlook of the Liberal Party in British Columbia, according to the Victoria and Island delegates who returned to-day from the Provincial Liberal Convention held there last week.

Features of the convention, they said, were the complete representation from every part of the province, the unanimity that marked the whole gathering, the manifestation of the personal popularity of T. D. Pattullo, who was confirmed as permanent leader, and the eagerness with which the party is entering the Federal election campaign.

Liberalism will make important gains in British Columbia in the Dominion election, according to the general run of public opinion in the interior, with H. G. Perry, Liberal candidate in Cariboo, certain of election, the delegates said.

Unpopularity of the Tolmie Government is proving to be one of the most outstanding factors now to the fore in the Dominion campaign as it is getting under way, they declared. Public opinion over the whole mainland is beginning to express itself openly as disappointed in Premier Tolmie and his ministers. The hostility on the part of the public to the (Continued on Page 10)

Premier Tardieu Answers Addresses Delivered By Premier Mussolini

Dijon, France, June 2.—In the French Government's keynote speech today, Premier Andre Tardieu told 1,500 leaders from all branches of life that France was strong and intended to remain mistress of her own destiny, needing neither to fear nor to boast.

The Premier's address has been awaited by all France, and by many other countries because it followed closely on speeches by Premier Mussolini of Italy which had been characterized in the French press as "bellicose" and as directed mainly against France.

M. Tardieu made no specific mention of Italy nor of Mussolini, but confined himself to a declaration of calm confidence in French democratic institutions and national strength, both physical and moral. He added, however, that although "the government is passionately interested in this world, it has neglected nothing which would enable France to participate actively by vigilantly safeguarding her security."

EUROPE WATCHES

Paris, June 2.—All Europe is watching with interest and some anxiety a political situation which promises to develop into a duel between two European statesmen, Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy, and Andre Tardieu, Premier, who France regards generally as a worthy successor of men like Clemenceau and Poincare.

Mussolini has attracted attention again because of his recent series of political speeches in northern Italy, wherein he warned the world that Italy's independence and Italy's future could not be neglected and that, on occasion should necessitate it, the world would find the Italian people would form themselves into a solid mass to defend Italian rights.

In another speech he declared there was nothing more insulting to the pride of the Italian people than to suppose Italy's recent naval programme was a thing which would not be brought to its consummation. And he continued with the phrase that has rung around Europe, "Words are beautiful, but Gatling guns, warships, airplanes and cannon are even more beautiful."

Frenchmen generally believe Mussolini's address as a challenge to the French refusal at London to grant naval parity to Italy, and secondly and thirdly because of the failure of negotiations concerning Tripoli and Tunis to materialize in a manner pleasing to Mussolini.

CLERK OF CITY SERVICE
DIES OF POISONING

NO PENSION
He entered the employ of the city twenty years ago, when he came to this country from England. His salary, latterly was $155 a month. By his dismissal last Thursday the city was deprived of the pension to which his length of service would normally have entitled him. His dismissal also terminated his group insurance policy, partially maintained by the city.

Besides the widow he is survived by one daughter, both at Mrs. Bentley's home, 1698 Twelfth Avenue West. At to-day's resumed session of the relief inquiry, George D. Ireland, former relief officer, now awaiting trial on a charge of receiving commissions and gifts of money while a city official will be the chief witness. He will be faced with allegations made Thursday by Clifton Maxwell, erstwhile relief officer, under sentence of eighteen months for the same crime, that Ireland was the instigator of thefts of meat tickets from the city relief office.

St. Eustache, Que., June 2.—Arthur Sauve, former leader of the opposition in the legislative assembly of Quebec, was asked at a Conservative rally here yesterday to resign his seat in the provincial house and enter the Federal campaign as Conservative candidate in the constituency of Laval-Two Mountains.

Mr. Sauve asked and was granted a few days to consider the matter.

150 Nationalists Injured While Fighting With Police at Wadala Sunday

Gandhi Writes Viceroy He Regrets Violence, But Says Disobedience Will Continue

Bombay, June 2.—Fifteen thousand Indians surged through a two-mile cordon of police at the Wadala salt works yesterday and left behind 150 injured. So overwhelmed were the police that they called troops to assist them, but the area was quiet last night and the soldiers were withdrawn.

The police used their bamboo staves freely, thus accounting for the 150 casualties, but the Nationalists who were unhurt emerged with handfuls of salt and considered their onslaught triumphant.

SALT DEPOT RAIDED

Bombay, June 2.—Breaking through a two-mile police cordon before military aid could be called, 15,000 persons yesterday raided the government salt depot at Wadala in what the Indian Nationalists had widely advertised as their "final raid."

Twenty-five of the raiders were injured in a charge by the police and nine women, including Mrs. K. J. Mumbai, wife of a former member of the Legislative Assembly, were arrested.

A few volunteers who straggled about to the salt pans early in the morning were soon joined by large crowds who arrived in automobiles, trucks and private cars. After breaking the police cordon, the raiders seized handfuls of salt, and covered to the waist with mud, returned to Bombay triumphantly exhibiting the salt tied in handkerchiefs and shouting the usual cry, "We have broken the salt laws."

STATEMENT BY GANDHI

London, June 2.—According to a dispatch to The London Daily Herald from Simla, Mahatma Gandhi wrote a letter from his prison to the Viceroy, expressing regret at the violent incidents which have followed the civil disobedience campaign, but disavowing all responsibility for them and reaffirming his followers' determination to maintain the principle of non-resistance.

SEVEN KILLED

Peshawar, India, June 2.—Seven persons were reported killed and nine wounded Saturday when police fired on a mob that had formed after the accidental shooting of a mother and her two children. Disorder ceased after the shooting, but business throughout the city suspended.

The shooting of the mother and children was caused by the accidental discharge of a rifle by a lance-corporal on duty at the Kabul gate one official statement said. The children were killed instantly, while the mother, wife of Sardar Ganga Singh, supervisor of the military farm, was taken to a hospital.

An excited crowd assembled immediately after the shooting and the police and troops asserted they were compelled to fire in self-defence.

MAN USES AUTO TO STOP TAKE-OFF OF OUTLAW PLANE
Detroit, June 2.—Risking death to prevent the take-off and escape of an airplane which had landed at Penn-wood and Allen avenues with two aliens smuggled from Windsor, Ont. yesterday, Stanley Zerambo, senior inspector of the immigration patrol, drove his automobile into the plane's whirling propeller, breaking it off and damaging one wing.

The radiator and windshield of Zerambo's car were shattered before both tips of the propeller snapped off. The inspector was cut about the face by the flying glass, but escaped serious injury.

The pilot of the plane escaped on foot. Zerambo arrested the two aliens, who were still covering in the ship.

VILLAGES IN ONTARIO ARE
SWEEPED BY FOREST FIRES

As fires edged in toward the outskirts of Sioux Lookout yesterday, airplane planes were periled. Gasoline tanks were towed by high trailers in each case a precaution, and planes were held in readiness for immediate take-offs.

The Sioux Lookout fire started near the heavily wooded area when men were burning a brush pile on Thursday. Four cottages were rased as the blaze rushed to the bay.

AT RED LAKE
In the "gold-rush" area of Red Lake five fires were reported sweeping over as many square miles. Late last night a radio station and provincial forestry headquarters were said to have been burned and aid was requested by plane from Sioux Lookout.

Port Arthur, Ont., June 2.—Forest fires in the Thunder Bay district increased their threat to-day with continued high winds spreading flames in many localities. The number of outbreaks is now beyond the possibility of attention from the forestry service in each case.

The winds carried ashes and burning embers and they, falling in the dry woods, started almost innumerable blazes.

Further men are being recruited in Port Arthur and Port William and are being sent to most threatened points. Flames are beginning to get into some of the important timber stands, and workers assembled by the paper companies, particularly the Abitibi and the Newage, are busy in such areas.

CRISIS WORK SAVED

Men recruited from Port Arthur Saturday and Sunday fought flames in the vicinity of the Onion Lake Dam saving the crib work and sluiceway, thus preventing the release of a big body of water. The Onion Lake Dam holds back forty-five feet of water for a distance of six miles.

VETERANS OF
B.C. MEETING
AT NELSON

Nelson, B.C., June 2.—With approximately 100 working delegates in attendance, the fifth annual convention of the British Columbia Command of the Canadian Legion convened here this morning under the presidency of Lieut.-Col. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., for sessions expected to cover three days.

Lieut.-Col. L. R. Lafiche, Dominion president, who sent his regrets by Gen. A. E. Ross, Dominion first vice-president, wired from Ottawa, where he was in attendance on Parliament to the last minute, that "all our legislation has passed," suggesting the satisfaction over this victory should be reflected in the convention. Cheers greeted the wire.

ADVERTISING WOULD
WELD EMPIRE FIRM

be possible, but towards the outside world it is still possible to achieve uniformity of economic policy which would enable the now separated parts of the empire to co-operate in the use of capital, the movement of population, and the development of natural resources. It is to-day within the reach of statesmanship to initiate an empire-wide era of prosperity and progress such as the world has never yet seen anywhere at any time.

"For three generations British statesmen and colonial aspirations seem to have been based on the money of natural empire into a series of disconnected parts. Why should we not pool our common resources, so that the lands and minerals and the forests of the great Dominions will be developed with British capital and occupied by a vast outpouring of millions of emigrants from the empire? The greatest asset of the empire is its people. Let us have a basis of enterprise, not state activity; I repeat that, most definitely, not state activity. Let empire prosper by the power of the money of investors, small and great, and backed up with a consolidated system of imperial credit and joint imperial co-operation."

"What, actually, is the economic situation in Canada to-day? It is about as unsatisfactory as it could be. The economic life of Canada to-day is in the hands of a few men. The only way to ensure a steady flow of the right kind of people necessary to the population of Canada from 9,000,000 to, say, 15,000,000, is by means of intensively and continuously advertising."

HUGE RETURN SEEN

"For a million sterling per year for three years there could be put into practice a scheme which at the end of that period would have put 1,000 new British factories into Canada and 1,000,000 new and good citizen inhabitants within her borders."

"The Dominion has done much, a great deal more to advertise itself in England, than industrial England has done to bring herself to the notice of people in the Dominion. England has done practically nothing to bring the Dominion to the notice of her people. What is needed is more every day publicity about Canada in the life of the British man in the street."

"So long as the mass of people in England have no true idea of what Canada is to-day—so long will your population figure stand still and the true progress of Canada on sound lines remain unfulfilled."

"In my travels across the Dominion from east to west in the past six weeks, I have sensed the existence of an economic council of business men of the Empire to-day—trade within the Empire and responsible only to Imperial conference."

"Canada is destined to become a second United States from the point of view of industrial importance. But not always will Canada be in a position to discuss her own terms, as she is to-day," he concluded.

The Retrospect
of Forty Years

Within the past forty years, Canada has made extraordinary progress.

The total of freight annually carried on the Canadian railways has increased six-fold. The total of savings deposits in the banks has grown nearly twenty-fold. The total of life insurance in force in Canada has grown nearly twenty-five-fold.

The figures are as follows:

	1890	1929
Freight carried : :	20,787,000 tons	133,330,000 tons
Savings deposits : :	$ 76,640,000	$1,480,000,000
Life insurance : :	$248,400,000	$6,157,300,000

These changes have occurred within the life-time of the present generation of business men.

Nevertheless, the past forty years witnessed a series of trade depressions. During a large part of the 'nineties, in 1908, in 1914-15 (both before and after the War began), in 1921-22 and again in 1924, business activity was severely restricted.

Each of these depressions aroused serious misgivings with regard to the future: each put a stop to much constructive planning. But, looking backwards, we now regard them as only short-lived interruptions in the march of progress.

These are the things we should remember as we face the problems of today.

ASSIZE COURT ADJOURNED TO WEDNESDAY

Weir, P. Carson, C. Griffiths, Mrs. Mabel Pierce, D. J. MacKenzie and D. Scott, all of whom were committed for trial by the lower court.

Kenneth C. Brown, charged with theft from a boat at Galiano Island, is the subject of a charge to go before the Grand Jury also on Wednesday.

In opening the Assize Mr. Justice Gregory commented on the return of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor after his recent trip and expressed the hope that the new chateaux at Government House would meet similar success in endeavoring herself to the hearts of the people as did her predecessor in that capacity, a hope, said the court, he felt was bound to be realized.

The occasion of the special assize, said his lordship, was the desire to deal promptly with a series of cases in which a large number of people were alleged to have been involved. The grand jury should pass first on the murder case, and then on that of two charges of forgery, he asked, adjourning the court until Wednesday.

AGRICULTURAL LEADER DIES AT SASKATOON

Dean W. J. Rutherford of University of Saskatchewan Succumbs

Saskatoon, Sask., June 2.—Death, which came suddenly last night, removed one of the pillars of agriculture in Western Canada when Dean W. J. Rutherford, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Saskatchewan passed away. His death came as a great shock, since it was generally supposed he was making recovery from a recent severe illness.

Tributes from leading citizens in many walks of life were paid to the work of Dean Rutherford. Perhaps the activity for which he was best known in recent years was the service rendered as a member of the Royal Commission on Grain Marketing appointed by the Saskatchewan Government. William John Rutherford was born at Potsdam, New York State, in 1871, and was educated in Ontario. He received his B.S.A. degree in 1903 and was dean of residence at the Guelph Agricultural College. He was professor of animal husbandry at the Manitoba Agricultural College from 1908 to 1909, Deputy Minister of Agriculture of Saskatchewan from 1909 to 1910, and was appointed dean of agriculture at the Saskatchewan University in 1909, a position he held until his death. He served on two grain commissions, one federal and one provincial. He also served on a number of federal commissions during the Great War and became a leading authority on all matters relating to the transportation, marketing and milling of wheat and a

THREE AT HOTEL TABLE KILLED BY GANGSTERS

Four Others Probably Fatally Wounded in Chicago Gang Warfare

Chicago, June 2.—Three men were shot to death, and a woman and a man wounded, all probably fatally in a renewal of Chicago gang warfare yesterday.

Those killed were Sam Pellar, thirty-two; Michael Quirk, forty, and Joe Beresche, all reputed members of the Terry Druggan gang of beer runners. The wounded were George Druggan, brother of Terry; Mrs. Vivian McGinnis, twenty-seven, wife of a local attorney; and Tony Tornatore, Joseph Perra, and Sam Monist, the latter three reputed members of the Joe Killop gang.

KILLED WHILE AT MEAL

Pellar, Quirk, Beresche, Druggan and Mrs. McGinnis were cut down by the gangsters, who used several machine guns through a window of the Manning Hotel at Fox Lake, near here and raked the group with fifty rounds of bullets. The group was seated at a table alone in the hotel dining-room when the gangsters made their appearance. The lone witness to the shooting, a hotel waiter, told the police of seeing guns pointed against the window, and the blast of fire that followed and of hearing the killers' automobile roar away.

Pellar, Quirk and Beresche were killed almost instantly. Druggan and Mrs. McGinnis were deposited at a hospital forty miles from the scene of the shooting two hours afterward by a motorist who left without revealing his identity. Little hope is held for their recovery. Tornatore, Farrari and Monist were ambushed in the North Clark street Italian district by two gunmen who escaped in an automobile.

Some Sidelights on Rock Gardening

By JOHN HUTCHISON, F.R.H.S.

Sir William Lawrence, the president of the newly-formed Alpine Garden Society of England, has a number of interesting things to say about this branch of horticulture in a recent number of Gardening Illustrated.

Among other things he says: "St. Bernard, so he tells us, was lost in the Alps; for many a day and many a night he struggled through glaciers, crevasses, snow-fields, and he called upon God to help him. But no help came, and he was about to renounce God, when 'round the corner where the snow had melted, he found a blue gentian and knew that God existed. St. Bernard is surely the patron saint of rock gardeners."

What Sir William does not tell us, however, is the fact that St. Bernard of Meuthon, who must not be confused with the great St. Bernard of Chablais, who was the great power behind the throne in the order of the Knights Templars, founded the two hospices, one on the Great St. Bernard and the other on the Little St. Bernard. It was by the latter pass that Napoleon crossed the Alps, but whether St. Bernard went by the same route is a matter of dispute. The two hospices are in existence to-day and have been open to travelers in the Alps since the eleventh century. The famous breed of St. Bernard dogs is said to have originated in Rome and the present breed are descended from dogs left in the Alps by the Romans in 57 B.C.

CONSERVATIVES ARE DIVIDED NOW IN BRITAIN

Attacks From Within Party on Baldwin's Leadership Grow

Canadian Press

London, June 2.—Once again Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservatives, is the subject of attacks from within the party and the chief circulators of the criticism, if not its authors, appear to be the newspaper men. Lord Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook.

Although Mr. Baldwin has been stumping the country almost day in and day out for months, certain Conservatives are renewing their demands for "a more vigorous leadership" and the Conservative leaders' grudging acceptance of the Beaverbrook empire trade crusade does not seem to have won him the support of Lord Beaverbrook, who would much prefer to see duties on foodstuffs made a Conservative plank in the next election rather than the subject of a special referendum, which Mr. Baldwin proposes.

The London Daily Mail, Rothermere paper, says there are Conservative members who say frankly that if Mr. Baldwin would follow the example of Rt. Hon. John Davidson, who has asked to be relieved of his duties as Conservative Party chairman, the way would be opened to more vigorous leadership of the party forces.

CHAMBERLAIN AS LEADER

The London Daily Herald, Labor, is already discussing the question of a successor to Mr. Baldwin and picks on Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain as the most probable. The Daily Chronicle, Liberal, twists the Conservatives with the slogan "B.M.G." (Baldwin must go) in 1930, which, The Chronicle points out, is the modern version of an old complaint, the Conservatives having had a "B.M.G." (Baldwin must go) in 1905, and a "B.M.G." (Bonar Law must go) campaign in 1923. The Chronicle says half a dozen Conservative rebels are thinking of resigning seats in safe constituencies and seeking re-election as Independents, thus putting the official organization in an awkward position.

The first of these shows has already been held.

Full particulars may be had by addressing Dr. P. L. Giuseppe, "Trevose," Felixstowe, Suffolk, England.

Among the committee of management the Viscountess Byng is a leading member, while such well-known names as Clarence Elliott, Maurice Picard, Amos Perry, George Reuther, W. Th. Ingherren and Miss Victoria Slade appear. This would seem to assure the success of the venture.

All those who are really keen about Alpine plants and wish to have the best that can be secured in the way of information and advice on the subject would do well to consider joining this society.

This Is a Good Time to Lay Walks and Driveways

In no part of the garden is it possible to save or waste so much money as on paths, walks and driveways. When you have built these things you expect them to endure, but you will be disappointed unless the work is done right from the beginning under expert supervision. We have equipment for such work in many styles and will be glad to show you numerous gardens in which our methods of construction are proving attractive, durable and economical.

A FAIR DEAL FROM OTTAWA

PREMIER FERGUSON, OF ONTARIO, with a gesture of lofty righteousness, says he is throwing the whole weight of his government against the King government in the present election campaign because he fears that his province, under a Conservative ministry, will not get a square deal from a Liberal ministry at Ottawa. This makes a convenient cry for Mr. Ferguson, in the absence of any issue on which he can oppose the Ottawa administration. Indeed, the Dunning budget leaves him no other cry.

In any case, Premier Ferguson is, and always has been, in federal politics under one pretext or another. He has always campaigned for the Conservative party in federal elections, always predicting sweeping victory for it, always stayed with his comfortable job in Ontario, taking no chances of defeat with his federal friends. But somehow we do not think that the Conservative Premier of British Columbia, in the same awkward position, will raise Mr. Ferguson's present cry. It is true that Premier Tolmie pledged his government in advance to support the Conservative opposition at Ottawa, without waiting to see what the issue of this election would be, but he cannot explain this support as Mr. Ferguson has done. Premier Tolmie so often has publicly paid tribute to the fairness and generosity of the King government in his dealings with it, that his views in this matter are familiar to all the electors of British Columbia. We do not believe for a moment anyway that Premier Tolmie would so distort the facts as to follow Premier Ferguson's lead.

Since British Columbia elected a Conservative government in 1928 it has had many dealings with the Liberal government at Ottawa. Overshadowing them all was the transfer of the Railway Belt and the Peace River Block from federal to provincial control. True, the Oliver and MacLean governments had arranged the general scheme of transfer, but Premier Tolmie says that his negotiations with the federal government were of vital importance in closing the deal satisfactorily. In those negotiations, the most important that had taken place between British Columbia and the Dominion since the times of Confederation, the Liberal government at Ottawa dealt so generously with the Conservative government at Victoria that Premier Tolmie, in the Legislature, recorded his appreciation in warm terms.

In many speeches, incidentally, the Premier has spoken of the highly satisfactory relations prevailing between his government and the federal government and, since his election, he has never had any serious disagreement with the Dominion authorities.

We do not know what reason Premier Tolmie will give for supporting Mr. Bennett, but he will have to produce a better one than Mr. Ferguson has been able to find. Certainly he cannot say that Mr. Bennett would do any more for British Columbia than Mr. King has done. The federal government has not played politics in British Columbia's affairs. We do not think the people of British Columbia want Conservative politicians to do so now.

THE REDOUTABLE "BOBBY"

NEWSPAPERS ALL OVER THIS CONTINENT and throughout the British Empire and many foreign countries used a good deal of space during the week-end to tell their readers how "Bobby" Jones beat Roger Wethered and won the British amateur golf championship. It was news of first-class importance to the golfing world and to the sports-loving fraternity generally—and justified the prominence given to the event. But nothing that has been said could be very much more eloquent of what happened at historic St. Andrews last Saturday than the following terse statement from Frank H. King, Associated Press staff writer, who with many journalistic colleagues followed the match:

Jones played thirty holes in two under four—and there is the story of the 1930 British Amateur final.

Those who play the game itself know that this means golf played about as perfectly as it is possible to play it. It represents a score in which a minimum of error has been made. It can be said that this is the sort of golf which it is customary to expect from Mr. Jones—and very rarely does he fail to produce it. Mr. Wethered played a brand of golf himself good enough to hold the average first-class amateur; but the young lawyer from Georgia seems to be too good for the best of the rest.

The British Amateur championship was the one trophy Jones required to complete a record in international golfing triumphs. Among his "silverware" now repose the emblems of the British Amateur and Open, and likewise the United States Amateur and Open, a collection possessed by no other golfer. There are no more worlds for him to conquer with the clubs of which he is so complete a master—unless he feels that he should win all four in one year.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANADA

FROM A COMPREHENSIVE ANALYSIS of the world's business in post-war years we get the impartial view of Mr. S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, included in which is the statement that Canadian production has exceeded that of the world by a wide margin in many important branches of economic life.

Mr. Logan points out that in this study, one of world-wide extent, only information from the most reliable sources was employed. Information from China and some minor countries was discarded because of the lack of adequate statistical matter, although even the inclusion of data from these regions would not have resulted in any material change. The period which he selected for the analysis was from 1925 to 1928; the first year marked a definite turn away from depression towards prosperity, the latter condition being evident throughout the world to a greater degree in 1928 than in any former year. We then read in the bank's comments:

The great fever of speculation that developed towards the close of the period analyzed by Mr. Logan sapped some of the world's economic power, but it did not burn out any vital elements. Notwithstanding the great drop in commodity prices which followed in the wake of the speculative boom, the physical structure of world business rests today on a broader foundation than ever before, a factor which will play an important part when the present period of unsettlement is over and the stage is again set for prosperity. As for Canada, her imposing record of progress achieved in a brief space of time gives but a hint of her potential power, and of the position which, by the development of her natural wealth, she can take in the next march of world progress.

A striking feature of Mr. Logan's findings is the nature of their contrast with those of some politicians who are telling us that the country is going to the dogs and will escape a dire fate only if the Canadian people substitute a government headed by Mr. Bennett for that over which Mr. Mackenzie King presides. Mr. Logan, as is usual with bankers, is not interested in political or any other kind of fiction. If the facts as they relate to Canada indicated retarded progress, we should have been told with equal candor. The public, however, will get an idea from his opinion of the soundness of the foundation upon which the economic life of the country rests.

CARELESS DRIVING

FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS during 1929 in the United States showed a ten per cent. increase over the figure for the previous year. Nor is this the worst of it. The National Safety Council, after studying the situation, reports that the increase was chiefly due to careless driving on the part of the average motorist.

It has become more or less of a habit to blame motor accidents on trucks, or on traffic congestion, or those pedestrians who often dart out into the street without looking; but evidently many of these alibis are deserting us. Our neighbor's motorists, however, seem to be growing more careless on the highways—and this at a time when every year's traffic toll calls to the public in louder and louder tones to exercise the greatest possible care lest the automobile becomes a curse instead of a blessing.

THINKING LOGICALLY

WHILE THE BIG-NAVY AND LITTLE-navy advocates in the various countries represented at the recent naval parley in London are discussing the treaty and its implications, some commentators are trying to make up their minds whether it was an armament or a disarmament conference.

Mr. Wickham Steed, formerly editor of The London Times, writing in his Review of Reviews, has reached the conclusion that there was too much of a relapse into pre-war phraseology—"a relapse due to the ingrained habit of thinking of peace in terms of future war and of imagining that, should war ever recur, it will be fought under the same conditions as those which prevailed in the past." He explains himself thus:

If we are going to think in terms of war, despite the League Covenant and the Kellogg Pact, we ought, at least, to think logically. Long before navies could get to grips, in any future European war, or could affect its outcome by blockade, the capitals and the principal cities of the belligerents would be destroyed by aircraft.

There might be some sense, Mr. Steed suggests, in demanding a two-power standard in the air, "and in turning our attention to the development of every scientific device for the automatic destruction of our European neighbors, if we were determined to base the estimate of our defensive needs upon the idea of war as the major probability of the future. But," he concludes, "to risk the stultification of our efforts to promote naval disarmament by putting into the naval treaty a 'safeguarding' clause inspired by old-fashioned notions about a two-power naval standard on sea, hardly seems a whole-hearted interpretation of the Kellogg Pact."

It is not difficult to follow the reasoning of those critics of the naval parley who think the main issue was obscured, that a larger measure of reduction should have been agreed upon; but it is difficult to follow the arguments of those who are quibbling about the point as to whether this or that nation should have twenty or twenty-five cruisers—the figures are merely relative—of this or that tonnage, and with this or that size of gun. As Mr. Steed says, the tendency still is to think of peace in terms of war—taking no account of developments in the air.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CANADA'S TARIFF

The New York Sun

Much as American business may regret the threatened loss in export business, it will recognize the clear right of Canada to protect its own trade.

JUMPING PRICES

The Hamilton Herald

Protection is a little affair to get tangled up with and already the people are finding out what it does when the specious merchants have a chance to let themselves loose. Vegetables and fruit are already responding to the decisions of the commission merchants. The retailers declare they have nothing to do with it. It is always some one higher up. At any rate hard-headed lettuce made a jump of about fifty per cent and tomatoes have gone from 20 cents to 30 cents a pound. These are samples of what protection on a Bennett scale would do to the country.

It is an old conviction that the country would be tremendously prosperous if all the water were squeezed out of stocks and the tariff was used only for protection and not for profit. It is all right to keep foreign products out, but when they are made at home the producers should not take advantage of their fellow citizens to soak them for all they can get. More and more better business will be done when only reasonable profits are sought than when every last cent is taken out of the customers. The government has the matter in hand and there will be adjustments made, it is stated, which will prevent extortion. The incident helps us to understand the reluctance of the British people to subject themselves to any risk of those perils of protection.

Loose Ends

This column gets into grave trouble with the law—M. Patou is broken-hearted, and no wonder. We seem to be going downhill—and dogs will be dogs.

By H. B. W.

I NEVER thought, even in my most melancholy moments, that this column would ever be written by common sense. Alas, it is so. Or at least it is about to be so. I am about to be taken before His Majesty's courts outraged of justice and punished as I deserve. At the moment I am sub judice, and if you have never been sub judice you will not understand what a distressing feeling it is. I shall feel better when I know what I have done. It costs me $15. Of course it is all my own fault. I should have known better, but, then, I was in a hurry and the school was in session; no children played near it and I went by at more than the statutory fifteen miles an hour. The tragic thing about it is that there are four schools on my road to town. I had religiously slowed down for three of them, but at the fourth, seeing no one in sight, and forgetting that there was a school, I just kept on going. Apparently the law was hiding behind a broom bush and saw me.

TODAY a policeman called, and if a policeman has never called on you, you cannot possibly imagine what a queer feeling it gives you down the spine. "I have a summons for you, sir," said he in a kindly and respectful voice, as if he were offering me a handsome gift, for he was a most excellent officer. You will find, when your turn comes that a policeman brings you a summons, instantly your mind, like that of a drowning man, fills with all the crimes you have ever committed. I thought of the time that I—but why bring that up? And then I wondered if they had found out—but as they hadn't I won't go into that. The laws of prison seemed to be opening wide to receive me and I felt sure it could not be less than a year or grand felony—3—was a relief to know that I had only broken the traffic regulations, grave as that fault is. The policeman was firm but kind. He did his best to cheer me up and said I should get off with a fine all right, as this was the first offence the police had found out, and added as he went off whistling, that he would see me later in court. Yes, he will see me later, and by the time you read this, gentle and broken-hearted reader, I shall have a criminal record with the other felons. Take me, gaoler, I am quite ready.

M. JEAN PATOU, who is the final court of appeal in all questions of womanly fashions and who reintroduced the long skirt, has lately broken down and made a full confession. With a bleeding heart he said: "Long dresses are intended for tea, formal dinners and balls. Never, never have I intended them for the masses. I have never before been so upset!" The spectacle of M. Patou's grief, as he sees these long dresses, which he created for ladies of fashion being worn by everyone and everywhere, is most affecting. Evidently the poor man has kept himself so closely confined to his own salons that he has not realized the robust democracy of modern style. It recognizes no boundaries of birth, or position, or wealth. If M. Patou decrees long dresses for grand dames in the ballrooms of Paris and London, he must decree them for the women in the dance halls of Peoria, Ill. No political system, no form of government devised by men has ever produced the perfect, unquestioned equality of women before the court of fashion.

AND YET, behind the grief of M. Patou I think there is more than he would be willing to admit. I suspect that he is less heart-broken because women are wearing too many long skirts than because they aren't wearing enough of them. From all the centres of fashion comes the same stirring story. Women are in revolt against long skirts. They have denounced them in every language and declared that they will never, never wear them. A few heroic souls have even gone so far as to wear short skirts, which is a feat unparalleled since style began. Some rash prophets have dared to assert that women at last have triumphed over fashion. Be not deceived. The laws of fashion apply equally and without favoritism to all women, but they are as ruthless and as implacable as the laws of nature itself. Whether they go up or whether they go down, this law must ultimately prevail. The world is quite inconceivable otherwise. It is quite inconceivable, I mean, that women should ignore M. Patou and dress as they like. If they do so, they wouldn't like the way they dressed for two days. They want to be told what they like and then they will believe it.

EXPERTS have lately been making some valuable new discoveries about our future which, like most expert discoveries, are highly discouraging. This Albert Edward Wiggam, eminent scientist has just said: "If you take 1,000 Harvard or Yale graduates at the present birthrate there will be only fifty descendants of theirs left in six generations. But 1,000 unskilled women at the present rate would have 100,000 descendants in the same period." From these rather striking facts, Mr. Wiggam concludes that the United States is going to produce a race of gradually declining intellectual power until in the end morons will possess the nation. The same thing, in greater or less degree, apparently applies to other civilized nations where, it seems, the ablest people have the fewest children. If this movement is to overcome the world, if evolution is going to reverse itself and we are moving steadily downward, there is one ray of hope—according to statistics lately gathered by the best authorities, the human race seems certain to reach a high-water mark in population and then gradually decline through the decreasing birthrate. Eventually we shall disappear altogether. In the light of Mr. Wiggam's discovery about the decay of intellect, perhaps this is the best thing that could happen to us.

THE OFFICIAL in charge of Victoria's force of letter carriers has lately written to the papers to complain that dogs make a habit of biting these officers of the Post Office Department. I can sympathize with their difficulty, for I once had a dog who was gifted that way. From observing his behaviour over many years I am able to say that it is not the letter carriers that dogs object to, but the letter carriers' uniforms. When my letter carrier appeared on duty my dog would rush at him instantly and take a nice nip out of his leg. When this gentleman walked by in his ordinary clothes my pet would run to greet him in the most friendly way. I think there is a strong pacifist sentiment abroad among dogs of the present day and, being unable to distinguish between the uniforms of soldiers and postmen, they attack both. I don't see just what can be done about it, unless we dress postmen as mere civilians or dispense with them altogether.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Ancient and Modern Neomancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday.

"Regard not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek ye wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the Lord your God" (Leviticus ix 31) was one of the Scriptural texts contained in the lesson-sermon.

Following the reading of the Bible texts, passages were also read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being the following from page 100: "The truths of immortal mind sustain man, and they annihilate the fables of mortal mind, whose flimsy and gaudy pretensions, like silly moths, singe their own wings and fall into dust."

Captain Hickey, who possesses a Canadian coasting license, has been debarred from taking command of the C.P.R. steamship Princess Victoria on her present triangular route by William E. Laird, the shipping master of this port, on the ground that the ship is British and that the captain's qualifications are not sufficient.

H.M.S. Egria hit a boulder off Gabriola Island at extreme low tide yesterday, as a result of which she is drydock at Esquimalt, where she has remained immediately after floating clear of the obstruction.

Captain J. W. Truop made the trip to Seattle on the steamer Princess Victoria last evening. He says that the ship is running a little faster than last year.

UNEMPLOYED IN HOUSE WRECKED CALGARY FIGHT AND POLICE ARE WITH POLICE HUNTING GANG

Attempt to Hold Parade Without Permit Leads to Eleven Arrests

Calgary, June 2.—Police and unemployed men, led by Communists, battled here Saturday for a short time as the police attempted to parade without a permit.

Two policemen were injured and eleven Communists, including Joseph L. Farby, their provincial organizer, were arrested and held without bail on charges of unlawful assembly.

Police reserves were called to quiet the disturbance. They were told that a parade would be attempted at 5.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon reached Chief Constable David Ritchie Friday afternoon. Saturday afternoon the reserves were called out in case of emergency and were held at headquarters.

On Saturday, after the leaders had addressed a group of several hundred unemployed, the majority being of foreign birth and speaking broken English, on a vacant lot opposite the employment office on Sixth Avenue and Second Street East, a parade was attempted. They were stopped by Chief Ritchie and Inspector Cooper.

Leaders of the crowd held pieces of lumber on which pasteboard banners had been tacked. With these they started to fight the police. Part of the reserves from headquarters, a block away, came on the run and, assisted in quelling the mob, Billies were drawn for the second time within a few months in the same kind of a disturbance and the incipient riot quickly ceased under the threat.

Thunder Bay District Menaced By Serious Forest Conflagrations

Port Arthur, Ont., June 2.—Many districts of Thunder Bay are menaced by forest fires, and the situation has increased in seriousness during the last twenty-four hours, according to forestry patrol officers. To prevent major conflagrations, rain is greatly needed.

Three hundred men are fighting the fires in the district. Thunder Bay under the direction of the Ontario forestry patrol service. Airplanes and motor trucks transported men and equipment to the danger zone yesterday.

Settlers' homes appear so far to have escaped, though several are blanketed by dense smoke as the fire creeps closer to the homesteads.

Nanaimo, June 2 (Special to The Times)—The negotiations for the purchase of the E. & N. by the C.P.R. are completed with the exception of a few minor details.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—Generally fair and moderately warm, with light variable winds.

J. P. Babcock, provincial fisheries commissioner and Provincial Engineer Gamble have returned from Queenella, where they inspected the fishway at the dam and made arrangements for its repair.

Captain Hickey, who possesses a Canadian coasting license, has been debarred from taking command of the C.P.R. steamship Princess Victoria on her present triangular route by William E. ## HOUSE WRECKED AND POLICE ARE HUNTING GANG

Residence of Nelson Barrister on Kootenay Lake Dynamited

Nelson, B.C., June 2.—The summer home of E. C. Wragge, Nelson barrister of the firm of Hamilton, Wragge & Hamilton, was completely wrecked some time during Saturday night.

No one was living in the house, situated on the west arm of Kootenay Lake, a couple of miles from Nelson. It is just a week ago a planned dynamiting of Peter Verigin's tomb in the Doukhobor colony at Brilliant failed when a time fuse was extinguished for lack of air.

Discovery of the wrecked summer home was made Sunday afternoon. Dynamite had been placed on the hearth, in the centre of the house. The interior and furniture were completely wrecked. The house was last occupied May 2.

It is believed the explosion occurred about last Wednesday and it was Thursday when a passerby noticed several shingles torn from the roof. While the police have made no statement it is believed they have a definite clue. The attempted dynamiting of the Verigin tomb and this recent dynamite episode are believed the work of the same persons.

Plan "Space Car" For Trip To Distant Planets

WRITERS ORGANIZE TO BACK SOLAR SYSTEM HOPS

A fabulous "space car" in which human beings can go and visit other planets than the earth is the ultimate object of the American Interplanetary Society, formed under the leadership of David Lasser and G. Edward Pendray.

Lasser, an editor and amateur scientist, and Pendray, writer and newspaper man, are bringing laymen and scientists together to foster research and experiment in the hope that such a conveyance may some day be built and launched on its journey to the stars.

Their membership list includes professors of science in colleges and high schools, writers, journalists, technical men and others who have a strong interest in the development of methods by which communication and contact may be established with the moon and other distant bodies in the solar system.

OFFER FINANCIAL BACKING
In an announcement issued by the society, it was stated that the society would become a national organization, with financial and other resources which would enable it to offer "real inducement and stimulation to American scientists comparable with that offered to scientists of Germany, Austria and France in the development of rockets, rocket cars and other proposed methods of traveling in space."

"We also expect," said the statement, "to find and make available all of the facts, historical and technical, which bear on the problem of interplanetary travel and space-flying. We hope to present these facts in such a manner that the public may understand that while communication with the earth's sister bodies is not practicable or possible at the present state of our scientific knowledge, the solution of the chief problems is not thousands of years away, but may be an achievement of our own or the next generation."

"It is possible that many now living may see the time when a serious attempt will be made to shoot a rocket-driven car to the moon or a planet."

"Already we have seen the great strides made in the development of rockets and rocket-driven machines by Fritz von Opel, Hermann Oberth and Max Valier in Germany, Ludvik Ocenasek in Austria, and in our own country by Professor Robert H. Goddard of Clark University. It is not ward in many countries, including our own, seeking the correct combination to produce this explosive. Given power enough, the other technical problems which at present preclude a flight into space, can probably be readily solved. The members of the American Interplanetary Society feel that there is room for a group which will take an active part in encouraging research in this direction.

WARNS A DANGER

"Such research is of necessity dangerous and expensive. It requires financial support, public interest, and a central clearing house for data and information. In each of these fields the American Interplanetary Society hopes ultimately to assist."

The society expects to find its active members among persons who are interested in the general problems of space travel, and who have at least an amateur's knowledge of science and the nature of the physical world. It plans to assemble a library which will be the most complete and authoritative in America on the technical and historical facts bearing on its special problems.

MENNONITES DESIRE TO TAKE PRAIRIE FARMS

Provinces Asked to Permit 300 Families to Settle on Land

Regina, June 2.—Consideration is being given by the Saskatchewan government to an application from the Colonization Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to permit the entry of at least 100 Mennonite families to join relatives already resident in the province.

A few days ago announcement was made from Ottawa that over 300 Mennonite families were to be brought to the Dominion this spring by the C.P.R. through its colonization department, of which 116 families would be located in Manitoba and the balance in other parts of the west.

Hon. M. A. MacPherson, Attorney-General, when interviewed Saturday, stated an application was before the provincial government for admission of 100 new Mennonite families to the province, and that the application was being very carefully scanned. No decision had yet been reached as to whether consent would be given by the provincial government, he stated.

SLIGHT DECLINE IN EMPLOYMENT

Federal Statistics Show Small Decrease in Workers in B.C.

The improvement in employment in British Columbia during the month of May was not quite so extensive as in the spring of last year, when the index figure was nearly a point higher, according to statistics received today from the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce.

An aggregate payroll of $6,561 workers was indicated by 727 firms furnishing data. The same number of firms had $2,762 workers in the preceding month. Manufacturing and construction were decidedly busier, especially marked advances taking place in the latter. Transportation and logging were also more active.

Throughout the Dominion reports from 7,208 firms showed a decidedly upward trend in employment. The payrolls of these employers were increased by 31,470 persons to 976,224. The situation, though not so favorable as in the spring of last year, was nevertheless better than all other previous years of which records have been kept.

EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN, BUT NO CASUALTIES

Tokio, June 2.—The longest and strongest earthquake of the year yesterday had left only minor damage in its wake, of twenty-five minutes' duration and twelve millimetres magnitude, the disturbance stopped clocks and caused frightened people to desert their homes, but nowhere in the affected area were any casualties reported.

The quake heavily shook an area within a radius of sixty miles of Tokyo.

An official communique issued by the Tokyo Central Meteorological Observatory, said the disturbance had centred in the Pacific Ocean east from Tokyo.

The quake was perceptible to people for six or seven minutes.

Three Face Trial On Charge Of Seizing Man

Red Deer, Alta., June 2.—Dismissal of the charge against Ole Boode and the sending up of Claude Rose, Ralph Mowbray and Walter Butlin for trial at the fall court session in Red Deer on a charge of "forcibly seizing and confining" Fred Paul Doherty, under section 297 "B" of the Criminal Code, were the decisions handed down Saturday at a preliminary hearing in the court house in Red Deer before Magistrate H. G. Scott. The decisions marked the end of a five-round investigation regarding the alleged larceny and feathering of Doherty near Black Falls during the night of May 21, said at first to have been the work of the Ku Klux Klan. At the opening of the proceedings defence counsel elected to have a joint trial of the four defendants. At the conclusion Magistrate Scott ordered the release of the three men on providing bail of $1,000 each.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Midway will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

SPEEDY RELIEF FOR SPASMS IS MOST DESIRABLE

While we dislike to utter warnings of possible happenings to children, it has been brought to our attention that we talk too infrequently of "spasms" which are of such common occurrence. There are certain types of children more susceptible to spasms than others, even given the same provocation. These children belong to the nervous type and are probably, in most cases, rickety children, also. Whether the nervousness and inclination to convulsions, is caused first and foremost by the malnutrition or by the nervous constitution is hard to say. The whole thing goes around in a circle.

Over-indulgence in any kind of food which results in a digestive upheaval may end in convulsions. The commonest cause of most of the children's diseases is a convulsion. One experience sends the mother post-haste to some authoritative source for information about what to do when the child has a spasm and how to prevent it, for there are few more terrifying sights.

STARTS WITH FEVER

The child begins by having a fever that may rapidly rise to alarming heights. Then he begins to twitch, fixedly into space and ends by twitching in every muscle, a gurgling noise and foam coming from his mouth.

Strip the child. Heat one quart of water as quickly as possible. Dip a heavy Turkish towel into the hot water, wring the child in the towel and cover with a dry blanket. Put a cloth wet in ice water on his forehead. Call the doctor. Putting the child into a tubful of hot water is even better, but when it is a question of heating a tubful of water and just enough to liberally wet a large Turkish towel, it is desirable to do that which can be done most quickly.

The mother should take the precaution of submerging her own elbow in the water to make certain that while good and warm it is not hot enough to burn the unconscious child.

The object is to bring the blood to the surface and thus relieve the over-worked heart.

KEEP CHILD QUIET

When the child has regained consciousness and the spasm is over, do not believe give a simple laxative and relieve the lower bowel with a cool water enema. The use of one teaspoonful of salt in one quart of water is effective.

Then put the child to bed, keep him quiet, give only water to drink and avoid any return of the spasm. Children have convulsions from over-indulgence in any kind of food and for comparatively trivial causes, so it behooves a mother of this type of child to keep a watchful eye on all the food he eats both at the table and between meals.

The child who has frequent convulsions or whose consciousness is lost a few moments several times a week should be seen by a doctor, as such convulsions are far more serious and of different origin.

ORIENTAL HOME ANNIVERSARY

Interesting Celebration Marks Twenty-one Years' Mission Work in City

The Oriental Home and School was the scene of a very interesting gathering on Friday evening, when the members of the Chinese and Japanese auxiliaries met to celebrate their majority, twenty-one years having passed since these societies were organized.

The reception room was bright with spring flowers and a feeling of happiness was dominant as the three races, English, Chinese and Japanese, united in this common celebration. Besides the members of the auxiliaries there were present the advisory committee, the faculty of the home, Mrs. David Spencer, Mrs. J. W. Pendray, Mrs. Saunby, former missionary to Japan, and Mrs. Jones of the Indian mission work.

Miss Martin, the superintendent of the home, in a few fitting words, expressed the pleasure it gave her to welcome the guests to this happy occasion, and suggested the singing "Oh, Happy Day." Miss Helen Henderson led in the invocation and this was followed by the reading of the 91st Psalm by Mrs. C. Walker. Miss Frances Ho Den, Chinese, and Miss Yochi Nakamura, Japanese, contributed to the pleasure of the evening by sweetly singing "Send the Light."

ORIGIN OF AUXILIARIES

Miss Martin outlined the growth of these societies organized twenty-one years ago under Mrs. Burder. It was then called a Mission Band and met every week with the advisory board and consisted of women, growing children and babies. The interest given by the district organizer, Mrs. Frank Adams, and the earnest work of the president, Mrs. Snyder and Miss Annie Martin, until two thriving societies had been formed. Miss Martin said it was wonderful that almost all the church members had remained members of the society and only one Chinese member had died, and that three members of the advisory committee were present at this gathering, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Pendray and Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. Frank Adams, former district organizer, expressed her pleasure in being present, and Mrs. J. Wilson brought greetings from the Presbytery, saying "I am proud the Presbytery is of the Chinese and Japanese Missionary Societies, as all the Japanese members are 'live members' and that both societies make much good showing in their missionary allocations. She brought a special greeting from the Presbytery.

Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Pendray, who had been members of the advisory committee since the inception of the home, spoke. Mrs. Spencer said that she considered it a great privilege to be present at the gathering. It was an honor to belong to a missionary society as they were the forerunners of the Gospel and that all are indebted to missions in some way, even down to the time of St. Paul, the great leader of missionary effort. "Of one thing," said Mrs. Spencer, "we can all be very sure, that what we do for Christ comes back to us in our own blessing."

Mrs. Pendray spoke with much feeling of the great advance the work had made since the small beginning

Miss Baker contributed appropriate piano numbers.

After a short interlude the gathering reassembled in the dining-room where a delicious luncheon was served. The tables had been beautifully decorated by the girls of the Oriental Home and looked very inviting with flowers, place-cards, delicacies, fruit and candy and two large birthday cakes with shimmering candles. The birthday cake was cut by Mrs. Spencer.

Short addresses were given to the Chinese and Japanese groups in their own language by Mr. Lowe and Mr. Ogura, pastors of the Chinese and Japanese Missions. A resolution was moved by Mrs. Jung and seconded by Mrs. Uehlings that greetings of love be sent to the absent chapter members, now scattered over three continents. A very delightful part of the programme now being present, Mrs. Saunby, in her charming manner, spoke of the absent chapter members, and beautiful bouquets were presented by Mrs. F. W. Adams and Mrs. G. D. Christie to Mrs. Adams. Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Pendray and the charter members of the two auxiliaries present, Miss Martin, Mrs. Wong Chung, Mrs. Chung, Mrs. Ishida, Mrs.

Home Run Hitting Barrage Continues In Major League Ball

THE SPORTS MIRROR

When Bobby Jones, chunky lawyer from Georgia won the British amateur golf championship on Saturday by his splendid 7 and 6 victory over Roger Wethered, British star, in the final, he increased his total of major golf titles to ten in eight years. He had been twice thwarted in his efforts to win the British amateur, losing in the fourth round in 1921 and in the sixth round in 1926. He has been amateur champion of the United States four times, and is now open champion of the U.S. for the third time, and has twice won the British open championship.

The Georgian won the United States open in 1923 in a play-off with Bobby Cruikshank, and has not been without a title since. He won the U.S. amateur for the first time in 1922, repeated in 1923, was beaten by George von Elm in 1926, and came back to win 1927 and 1928, tying the record of Jerome D. Travers, who won the title four times. Last year he was eliminated in the first round by Johnny Goodman.

In 1926 and 1927 Jones won the British open, his winning score of 285 for the 72 holes at St. Andrews in 1927, making a new record for the event. For the two international team competitions Jones has captured the American Walker Cup team. He has never lost a single match in Walker Cup play, winning five. He did not play in one.

For the upper heavyweight championship of the world!

They call it a "natural," this proposed boxing contest June 23 in Philadelphia between Max Baer and Primo Carnera, the Leptiville Tiger Man and the Italian Giant. Carnera, the Wanderer, the Powerful Panatella, the Tail Tower of Venice.

They call it a "natural," but about the only natural feature may be the aroma caused by the whole affair. Both Carnera and Godfrey have participated in many exhibitions offensive to the olfactory senses.

Aside from the odor, however, it will be super-natural and original, if nothing else. No other bout can be said to parallel the proposed clash of these super dreadnaughts. Even if it is history is not written in the bout, it long will stand out as a rare meeting of ring leviathans.

Oddly, the paths on which Carnera and Godfrey lumbered to super heavyweights were widely separated. Whether or not you doubt it, George was just a little pickaninny when he was born in Alabama. His name was named him by S. Williams, but the name wasn't suited for ring purposes so he became George Godfrey.

Godfrey's professional record dates back to 1922, but during the first few years of his career he was known mainly through publicity he obtained by being attached to the prizefighter, champion Jack Dempsey's training stable. In 1928, George became a heavy-weight "bogie man," or perhaps Black Menace is the term. The latter is just a battybooby term often given pretty good colored fighters. But whatever he was, George never could get many fights with the more prominent heavyweights.

The Baron of Leptiville, one James Dougherty, manager of George, soon discovered that Godfrey, in winning more than half of his fights by knockouts, slowly was eliminating his opponents. The effect of this was to make his work easier and his purse smaller. Then it was that the wise old baron taught George to hold up his fists, to win only by decision or, if by knockout, never before the seventh round.

Carnera's story differs greatly. In fact, Primo never was little; he weighed twenty pounds at birth, which makes him a big something or other all his life. Success greeted Carnera at every turn in the U.S., even though he went hungry a few times back home. The incident of the Flattering Towel in Oakland, Calif., apparently has not served to halt the popularity of the large one, although various boxing commissions seek to boycott him.

Where Godfrey was instructed to carry his opponents, Primo has been taught to push them over quickly, to knock them out by a few punches. Sometimes too-quick push-overs were followed by investigations. On other occasions he has had to push over several times, but eventually they remained well pushed over. Recently he has been pushing them over at the rate of three and four an evening.

Probably some believe Primo really can fight; others are not averse to calling him a big fraud, one who will be knocked out the moment he meets a respectable heavyweight. Much of the same has been said of Godfrey, too, although most of us give the Black Menace credit for having enough experience to avert knockouts by the present era or light fighters.

Whatever else it does, this Battle of Biceps in Baker Bowl will give bulk entertainment. Just the ordinary Carnera push hadn't ought to tip over Max Baer, while the Black Menace hadn't ought to be able to wobble under wraps against the Wondering Ape.

And it's for the super heavyweight championship of the world.

Twenty-four Four Base Smashes Seen In Sunday's Games

Sluggers Continue to Hit Balls Out of Parks at Amazing Rate; Philadelphia Athletics Win Fourth Straight From Washington to Gain American League Leadership; Brooklyn Wins to Improve Standing at Head of National; Ruth Hits Sixteenth Homer; Hack Wilson Gets a Pair.

The old adage that all things, good or bad, some time must come to an end seems to be working out very well in the major leagues except where the habit of hitting home runs is concerned. Various winning and losing streaks toppled in yesterday's ten games, along with a few other marks for consistent performance, but the boys continued to drive balls outside the confines of the parks at an amazing rate.

In all, twenty-four home runs were hit in the ten games, seriously threatening the mark set May 22, when twenty-six homers were made in the same number of contests and Friday's performance of twenty-seven homers in sixteen games Babe Ruth, contributed his sixteenth homer and Hack Wilson hit two to equal the Babe's total.

Boston Red Sox turned on the New York Yankees after fourteen consecutive losses to win by 7-4. Ruth did not hit his homer until two were out in the ninth inning and by that time the game belonged to Boston.

New York Giants put an end to Harry Selbold's great pitching performance of having completed nine straight games as they took a double-header from the Boston Braves by scores of 9-4 and 10-3. Selbold started the second game and left abruptly in the third inning as the Giants scored twelve runs in one frame. Walter Berger did the long distance hitting with a homer in each game.

Philadelphia Athletics, downing Washington for the fourth time in a row and their eighth straight victory, defeated the Senators 10-2. The team of the season after he had won six games. The final count was 9 to 6 with a homer by William providing the margin of victory.

Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns, possessor of the record of the American League's best hurling record, could not check the slugging propensities of the Chicago White Sox to earn his eighth victory and lost 8 to 5. The Chicago victory helped produce a three-way tie in games for fifth place between two teams and Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Old Adolfo Luque of Brooklyn continued to win for the Robins, scoring his fifth straight victory at the expense of Philadelphia, 10-2. The Robins hit fifteen times for thirty-four bases, five of their blows being homers, and placed themselves three full games ahead of their nearest National League rivals. Chicago moved into second place, running its winning streak to five straight by trouncing the Pittsburgh Pirates 16-4. Guy Bush pitched well and the Cubs hit better, having Wilson's four homers and one by Hartnett in their fourteen blows.

Cincinnati Reds sent the St. Louis Cardinals down to third place with a double victory. The Cards lost by scores of 5-4 and 7-1. Harry Heilmann did the heavy hitting with six hits, two of them homers, for a perfect day.

Chicago, Ill., June 2.—The Cubs drubbed Pittsburgh here yesterday behind the good pitching by Guy Bush, to go into second place in the National League. The score was 16 to 4. Hack Wilson was the hitting star of the game with a single double and two home runs, his fifteenth and sixteenth of the season.

RANGERS AT TOP OF FORM TO WIN GAME

Brilliant Scottish Football Eleven Defeats Carsteel By 5-2 Score

After Playing Under Wraps Rangers Open Up to Give Brilliant Exhibition

Canadian Press
Montreal, Que., June 2.—With one of the most finished exhibitions of soccer witnessed here in some time, Glasgow Rangers, football champions of Scotland for 1929, defeated Carsteel of the National Soccer League, 5-2, here Saturday. The game was witnessed by more than 5,000 devotees of the sport.

The visitors played under wraps in the initial part of the first half, but once they opened up the locals were hard put to save themselves from a more overwhelming defeat.

The locals played one of the best games seen here, but their brilliancy was not to be compared with that of the Scotsmen.

The first goal was the result of a play by Brown, Smith, McPhail, Morton and Fleming, with Brown scoring. Morton started the play that resulted in Rangers' second goal. He secured possession of the ball at centre field and, after drawing the Carsteel defence to his end of the field passed to Smith, who was uncovered. The latter did not give Sharp any chance.

BRILLIANT EFFORT
Carsteel broke into the scoring column just before the end of the half, when they were awarded a free kick after Buchanan had fouled McEneaney. Lorimer took the kick and beat T. Hamilton. A few minutes later McPhail got the goal back for Rangers, when he scored on a brilliant individual effort.

A few minutes after the start of the second half, Rangers increased their margin on one of the prettiest combination plays of the match. The whole forward line participated in the play. Brown was the scorer.

With the count 4-1 in their favor, Rangers took things easy for a time in the second half and the locals were quick to take advantage of the opportunity to break through their defence. From a scramble in the front of the Rangers goal McEneaney best T. Hamilton to cut the Scotsmen lead. However, the Rangers again bore down and the result was another counter. Brown, Morton and Smith swept down the field and the last-named had little difficulty in scoring the final goal.

Fine Shooting By Holders of Trophy Keeps Silverware in Their Possession

Canadian Scottish Finish Second; Major Richardson High Scorer

Despite keen opposition from the Canadian Scottish and the 5th Brigade C.A.R.R., the Garrison rifle team on Saturday retained the Gordon Cup it won six years ago, in a spirited shoot against three other rifle squads. The winners had a total of 1093, while the Scots finished with 1,078. The 5th Brigade also had an aggregate of four figures, finishing with 1028. The Navy, the other team in the competition, checked in with 925.

COURT PLACES
NO BLAME IN SHIP MISHAP

Pilot Dawe, Capt. P. Beck and Frederick Tennant Exonerated in Ss. Losmar Case

Pilot Samuel Dawe, who had charge of the freighter Losmar on April 24 when the ship rammed the Second Narrows Bridge at Vancouver, is fully exonerated from blame in the finding of the marine court which investigated the mishap.

Capt. Philip G. Beck, master of the Losmar, and Frederick G. Tennant, who had the bridge raised and lowered in ample time for the freighter to pass, also were cleared of blame by the commissioners.

The court consisted of Capt. J. D. Macpherson, deputy to the Dominion wreck commissioner, with Capt. S. Vint and Capt. R. Archibald, R.N.R., acting as nautical assessors.

COURT'S FINDING

The finding of the commissioners in part is as follows:
"The court having carefully inquired into the circumstances attending the casualty, finds that the cause or causes which led to the American steamer Losmar fouling or colliding with the Second Narrows Bridge, Burrard Inlet, was in no sense due to any wrongful act or default on the part of her master, Philip George Beck, or to any other members of the vessel's crew. Neither, without doubt, can any blame be imputed to the bridge operator, on duty at the time of the impact, Frederick George Tennant, who had the bascule of the bridge raised and opened in ample time for the Ss. Losmar to pass; and which bascule had nothing whatever to do with the accident, nor was it, it appears, in itself even touched."

NO STEERING DEFECT

"Though the evidence, which was most satisfactory throughout, did not disclose any tangible or reliable reason for the sudden sheering of the Losmar to the port hand or the southern side of the Second Narrows Bridge, which sheering was the primary and sole cause of the disaster, the court has no hesitation in expressing its opinion, that the sheer to port was not caused through any defect in the steering gear or faulty steering on the part of the helmsman, but most probably the vessel being a little too far on the south side of the channel, thus bringing the vessel's bottom, if not in actual contact with, but nevertheless very close to the shoal which exists on the southern side, thus causing the vessel to be momentarily insufficiently waterborne, and for the time being losing control of the action of her steering gear and rudder, and though every effort was made by putting the helm 'hard to port,' reversing the engines 'full speed astern,' and letting go both anchors, the distance between the vessel and the bridge was then too contracted to avert the impact."

RETURNS CERTIFICATE

"In justice, however, to the vessel's pilot, Samuel Dawe, the court is unanimous in its opinion that, under the existing circumstances, having in view the total absence of any reliable marks or aids to navigation in that vicinity to assist him, little if any blame can be attached to him for error of judgment which was under the circumstances excusable. The court therefore returns him his license."

Madrid, June 2.—Commandante Ricardo Burquete, Spanish army aviator who was captured by Moorish tribesmen in the state of Rio de Oro last Wednesday after he had landed in the desert, reached the Spanish gunboat Canalejas Saturday, but the government has no news of his three companions.

Commandante Burquete on the flight was accompanied by Capt. Nunez Mesa, Vincent Ferrer, a mechanic, and Mohamed Ben Buys, a Moorish chieftain. They were in two planes bound from Cape Juby, a city in the Spanish African colonial possession, to Morocco, and were taken by nomadic Moors when forced to land.

PROVINCE WILL GIVE SAANICH TWO ARTERIALS

East and West Roads Will Be Maintained by Government

Two arterial highways through Saanich will be maintained at the cost of the province, the government having decided to take over the entire maintenance of the East and West Saanich Roads from Royal Oak northwards and of Quadra Street from the Victoria City limits to Royal Oak.

In addition, the Keating Crossroad will be given classification as a secondary highway, and the Province will contribute one-half the maintenance cost of this connecting link.

The Department of Public Works has undertaken the entire maintenance of the East Saanich Road because official counts have shown that ninety per cent. of the traffic is not of Saanich origin, being due to the existence of the ferry service between Sidney and the mainland.

The West Saanich Road is being taken over as an arterial highway because the bulk of the usage is concerned with tourist traffic to Mr. Butchart's gardens or is of Up-island character using the Mill Bay ferry.

VOTING LIST WORK STARTS

Staff of 166 Enumerators Calling on Electors To-day

Will Work Until Saturday Compiling Federal Election Voters

Under the direction of H. E. A. Courtney, return officer, 166 enumerators started out this morning calling on householders in the Victoria electoral district to compile the voters' list in preparation for the federal election which will be held on July 28.

The selection of enumerators was made on the recommendation of the Liberal and Conservative parties, each naming eighty-three. The enumerators started out in eighty-three pairs to cover every precinct in the district by Saturday. While the ordinary list of voters in the district is around 16,000 it is anticipated that with the facilities offered all electors to get on the list this year there will probably be 22,000 on the list eligible to vote at the next election.

Mr. Courtney this morning made another appeal to householders to give every assistance to enumerators. He requests that in apartment houses residents write their names, ages and occupations clearly and hand them to the person in charge so that they can be turned over to the enumerators when they call. He also asks that householders who do not expect to be in when the enumerators call leave a list of those residing in the house in a prominent position to be taken by the canvassers. There are no papers to sign by the elector to secure a place on the list. The returning officer also requests that handwriting be clear, pointing out how essential this is in the case of names where even a simple name like Smith may be spelled in four different ways.

EULER JOINS IN CAMPAIGN IN ONTARIO

Minister Speaks at Paris; J. Harold Named Liberal Candidate in Brant

Paris, Ont., June 2.—John Harold, Paris manufacturer, is Liberal candidate in the Brant constituency in the federal general elections. He was nominated at a convention here Saturday night. Mr. Harold sat in the Commons from 1917 to 1921.

Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, was the chief speaker of the evening. Alluding to the budget as scientifically designed, he said: "I have never conceded a man is a Liberal or a Conservative simply because of his tariff views. The tariff is an economic means to serve the country."

"The government of Premier King," continued Mr. Euler, "comes to you

she sings several songs, written espe-

background, almost the entire picture having been photographed in outdoor

Irish peasant girl, and all her speech is tinged with a soft brogue.Swimming Develops

Mahatma Gandhi, famed rebel leader, when Gandhi was placed under arrest.

FORMER CIVIC WORKER SAYS CHARGES FALSE

G. D. Ireland Denies He Shared in Relief Meal Ticket Cash in Vancouver

Tells City Council Accusation of Former Clerk Unfounded

Vancouver, June 2.—George D. Ireland, deposed head of the Vancouver City Relief Department, this forenoon denied participation, to any degree whatever, in the sale or redemption of city meal tickets, or that he had, at any time or in any manner, instructed or instigated his former assistant, Clifton Maxwell, to redeem tickets.

The veteran relief officer, already committed for trial on charges of accepting commissions from restaurants catering to the relief department, appeared before the City Council committee of inquiry and heard Corporation Counsel G. E. McCrossan, K.C., outline testimony given by Maxwell on the day he was sent to jail for redeeming tickets, to the effect that Ireland had been a party to the redemptions.

FARRIS IS COUNSEL

Accompanied by his counsel, J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., Ireland met at the committee table and in a quiet but emphatic voice gave denial to Maxwell's statements. At only one time did his comparative composure seem to desert him, and that was when he admitted it had been poor practice for him to borrow funds from the department's petty cash fund.

After questioning Ireland about several matters, Mr. McCrossan returned to the meal ticket question, on which Ireland on Thursday declined to answer questions because of instructions of his absent counsel. Mr. McCrossan read from the transcript of Maxwell's evidence, in which the convicted clerk-investigator charged he had never cashed tickets except at Ireland's instigation, on Ireland's instructions and for Ireland's benefit as well as his (Maxwell's) own.

GIVES DENIAL

"Is that true?" asked Mr. McCrossan, after reading the transcript. "I deny it absolutely," replied Ireland.

Counsel continued to read Maxwell's evidence to the effect that the latter had handed part of the proceeds to his chief. "That is not true," declared the former relief head.

"And Maxwell said this had been going on from April, 1929, until the investigation, and that before that back to 1927, you yourself took meal tickets. Is that true?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"You never took meal tickets or cashed these tickets," instructed Maxwell to do so? asked counsel.

"No," replied Ireland.

MEDICAL MAN'S PRACTICE RIGHT TO BE DECIDED

Council of B.C. Physicians to Hear Dr. V. E. Latimer's Application

Vancouver, June 2.—Pending hearing by a British Columbia Supreme Court of Dr. Victor E. Latimer's appeal from an order of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia, enjoining his name from the register, an application will be made to the medical council by G. L. Fraser on behalf of the suspended physician for permission to practice in the meantime.

Mr. Fraser is out of the city to-day, but it is learned he proposed to file an application with the secretary of the medical council for a stay of proceedings. This matter can be considered by the medical council.

Dr. Latimer has three months within which to appeal the order striking his name from the register. Notice of appeal and preparation of the transcript of evidence, heard by the medical council behind closed doors here, will be completed without undue delay.

LIST IS CROWDED

It is doubtful, however, whether the case can be heard before the vacation, owing to the congestion of the trial list in the Supreme Court. If it is not heard during June, the appeal will probably have to stand over until September.

No reasons for the medical council's decision have been made public. It is known the proceedings arose out of a complaint of Charles Oliver alleging unprofessional conduct. The principles are well-known residents of Penticton.

Ovire is awaiting trial at the Vernon assizes, opening June 10, on an assault charge arising out of an alleged fight and fratricide in which Dr. Latimer was the victim.

J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., appeared for Oliver before the medical council.

Heggie Named M.P.P. For North Okanagan To-day

Vernon, B.C., June 2.—George Heggie, Conservative, was elected member of the Legislature for North Okanagan at the nominations here to-day. He is successor to W. F. Kennedy, Conservative, whose resignation was filed last month, when he was appointed a member of the B.C. Liquor Board.

Mayor Stewart, whose name was prominently mentioned, decided to-day he would not run.

Hamilton, Ont., June 2.—Damage estimated at more than $250,000 was caused by a fire here that last night destroyed lumber buildings and machinery of the Consumers' Lumber Company.

MANUFACTURERS OF CANADA IN SESSION TO-DAY

President Hutchings Addresses Annual Meeting at Toronto

Toronto, June 2.—The annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association was opened here this morning with a large attendance of delegates and J. Hutchings of Winnipeg, president, in the chair.

In his presidential address, Mr. Hutchings, dealing with employment conditions, said:

"Great efforts have been and are being made by manufacturers in all parts of Canada to maintain employment. Others took the opportunity to repair and overhaul their plants; a great many in order to retain employees are working several days or half days in each week with complete staffs instead of full time, with partial staffs."

FIGURES SHOW GROWTH

Tracing the growth of Canada since Manufacturers' Association was founded in 1871, the president quoted the following figures:

life of the empire at large.

Thirteen countries of the Empire are represented by the delegates.

WELCOMED BY PRESS

"With both hands we give the delegates welcome," said J. L. Garvin in The London Observer yesterday.

They are confident that, by their discussions, they will present a new empire united and will vitalize the constructive forces of our nations.

The Sunday Times of London, said: "We have entered on a new national phase. A new spirit is moving the forces of the waters and at no time in our rough island history has the press had such an opportunity for helping in the great work of Empire consolidation and development."

Victoria and Vancouver are represented among the delegates from Canada at the Imperial Free Conference.

Bishop Murray In Vancouver To-day

Vancouver, June 2.—Right Rev. Gerald Murray, Bishop of Victoria, arrived in Vancouver this morning on his way to the Empire Conference.

He will leave for Victoria on Wednesday morning's steamer.

NON-REFUELING PLANE RECORD IS SET IN ITALY

Maddalena and Companion Keep Plane Aloft For 67 1-4 Hours

Rome, June 2.—The world's non-refueling airplane flight endurance record was brought to Italy to-day by Major Umberto Maddalena, who in 1928 first sighted General Umberto Nobile and the survivors of the dirigible Italia on the ice north of Spitzbergen.

Landing at the Montecello airfield, he and his companion, Lieutenant Fausto Cecconi, exceeded by one hour and forty-five minutes the previous record of the German aviators, Johann and Hans Ziemmerman, who in 1925 remained aloft for sixty-five hours and twenty-six minutes.

The new record in sixty-seven hours and fifteen minutes, the flight having been started Friday morning at Montecello.

The machine used was a 5-hp-Bis Savoie Macchettini plane equipped with a Fiat motor.

The Air Ministry announced definitely that the two aviators had broken the record over a closed course of 1,000 kilometers, and that the exact distance had not as yet been calculated.

PLANT BOMBED BECAUSE RATE LEVEL LOWERED

Seattle, June 2.—The interior of the Fair Cleaners and Dyers plant on Eastlake Avenue here, a cut-rate establishment, was wrecked late yesterday by an explosion which police attributed to an incendiary bomb. No one was in the plant at the time. A fire started by the explosion was quickly extinguished.

E. Anderson, proprietor of the shop, reported he had been subjected to a series of annoyances recently because of his refusal to raise his rates. He said windows had been broken in the plant, odor bombs hurled into the building and that threats had been made against his life.

Police recalled an attempt had been made to bomb another cut-rate cleaning establishment here about two weeks ago.

YOUTHS HEAR OPPORTUNITY FOR CAREERS

Vocational Conference at Memorial Hall Is Great Success

Seven business and professional men of the city, chosen from different walks of life, addressed the vocational conference of older boys and young men at the Memorial Hall Saturday night. Practical talks on planning careers and following them up were given to the intensely interested audience and afterwards interviewed the speakers to discuss various angles more closely.

The gathering was formally opened by Warwick Rawson, secretary of the boys' committee of the church, Frank Boughay, chairman, welcomed the boys from the various Anglican churches.

"The Christian Idea of Vocation," was the theme of the opening address by Archbishop E. P. Lacombe, who reminded the boys of the responsibility resting on each person's influence for good or evil. He urged them to follow the calling which seemed indicated by God and following it, to work for the highest good of mankind.

The electrical profession was described by R. Hutchinson, who pointed out the many branches of this field open to the youth of to-day.

Ernest Eve painted a glowing picture of the future in aviation and recalled the prowess of British and Canadian aces.

Problems confronting the construction engineer were outlined by F. H. Allwood, who explained that the standards of that profession had been raised. He referred to the satisfaction on his part in completing a good construction work.

A study of human nature and psychology, a knowledge of mathematics and salesmanship, and the facility of expressing one's self properly in words of writing, were necessary for success in the world of trade and commerce, stated A. J. Watson, in discussing this phase of the question. He pointed out that the possibilities of promotion in the business world were tremendous.

Dr. Thomas Miller spoke of the medical profession, its ideals and its standards of efficiency and its qualifications. The aim of the doctor was to prevent, he said, pointing out that a physician should be sound and clean of body, clean of mind, persevering and honest, possessed of vision and with a willingness to endure hardship.

Rev. E. Moss was the final speaker, his subject being "The Ultimate Goal of Vocation."

"The true aim of vocation is the development of character," he said. "Effective personality is seen at its best in the life of Jesus Christ. Develop the teaching of Jesus Christ in whatever work you have to do, and you will find the highest meaning in vocation and God will grant you success in the most lasting sense," he said.

Hearty votes of thanks were extended to all speakers. Refreshments were served at the close.

cathedral of Liverpool by Dr. H. Gussard. On the next day they will be at Harrogate and participate in a welcoming dinner and dance.

Further events on the programme will be a visit to Stratford-on-Avon, birthplace of Shakespeare, the viewing of a demonstration of modern arms at Aldershot, witnessing of a naval demonstration at Portsmouth, a reception by the president of the Royal Academy of Arts, a Scotch tour, which will include the grandeur of the Trossachs and a visit to ancient Edinburgh; a reception of New College, Oxford, by Rt. Hon. H. A. L. Fisher, its warden, and a reception by the British Government at Hampton Court Palace near the end of the month.

ELABORATE PREPARATIONS

For many months committees have been preparing for the conference, and each day has been planned in fine detail. The newspapers will discuss their own problems, the problems of their countries and of the Empire, and their conclusions. It is felt here, with a most important bearing on the life of the Empire at large.

Thirteen countries of the Empire are represented by the delegates.

WELCOMED BY PRESS

"With both hands we give the delegates welcome," said J. L. Garvin in The London Observer yesterday. "We are confident that, by their discussions, they will prepare a new Empire unity and will vitiate the constructive forces of our nations."

The Sunday Times of London, said: "We have entered on a new national phase. A new spirit is moving the face of the waters and at no time in our rough island history has the press had such an opportunity for helping in the great work of Empire consolidation and development."

Victoria and Vancouver are represented among the delegates from Canada at the Imperial Press Conference.

L. H. TIMMINS OF MINE FAME DIES IN EAST

Partner in Great Hollinger Property Succumbs at Montreal

Montreal, June 2.—Louis Henry Timmins, lumberman, merchant and mine owner, who played a large part in mine development in Northern Ontario, and who was a partner in the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, died at his residence here yesterday. He was seventy years old and had been ill for several months.

Born in Mattawa, Ontario, in 1859, he was a son of the late Noah Timmins, an early settler and prominent resident of the upper Ottawa Valley. Louis Henry Timmins and his brother, Henry, carried on the lumber and merchandising business left on the death of their father, but both were keenly interested in mining and when Cobalt was discovered in 1883 they bought the La Rose Mine. When that property was disposed of, Mr. Timmins moved to Montreal to reside, and with his brother became interested in the Porcupine District.

BOUGHT PROPERTIES

With their partners in the La Rose deal they purchased properties which became the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines.

During the last few years, Louis H. Timmins had gradually retired from active business. He was very retiring and quiet in his personal activities, but carried out a great deal of philanthropic and social work in an inconspicuous manner.

He is survived by a widow, who was Miss Alphonse Pare of Quebec, and by two sons and two daughters, E. H. Timmins Jr., Jules R. Timmins, Mrs. R. R. Costello of New York and Mrs. Donat Raymond of Montreal. A brother and sister also survive him: Noah A. Timmins of Montreal and Mrs. Bart Fitzpatrick of El Paso, Tex. fact that many millions of pounds a year were going to relieve unemployment.

He discussed the scheme of rationalization of industries by which England hoped to recapture her place in world trade, threatening his steel men and the shutting down of uneconomic flour mills.

British Columbia, as far as its trade was concerned, was in a favorable condition, Mr. Cole said. Although the whole population was only as much as that of the cities of Bath and Bristol combined, it was the third industrial province of Canada. It had a capital investment of $368,000,000, an annual output of $500,000,000 and a gross yearly output valued at $271,000,000.

"You should be very proud of this fact," he said.

Its trade position was strategic, it

ATTRACTIVE NEW POLICE PATROL FOR VICTORIA

Above is shown the new "Black Maria" which was recently put into service by the Victoria Police Department. The chassis, which has a wheelbase of 146 inches, and Studebaker Commander Six motor, were provided by the Studebaker Corporation, while the body was built locally by John Weston and Company. It is of the latest design in police patrol cars and has won favorable comment from those who have seen it. At the extreme right is shown Ben Grossman of the Jamieson Motors Limited, local agents for the Studebaker, standing beside Chief of Police John Fry. On the left is E. S. Mitchell, city purchasing agent. The machine was inspected by Mayor Anson and Police Commissioners W. E. Stansfield and A. McGavin, along with the chief and purchasing agent and highly approved.

had direct communication with the Orient and the Antipodes, to South America and by Panama Canal to the United Kingdom and the continent.

As far as the grain trade was concerned, it was interesting to note that 55 per cent as much grain was shipped from Canadian Pacific ports last year to the United Kingdom as from Canadian Atlantic ports.

With regard to lumber, while it was understood that British Columbia's trade had not been very good last year, it had shipped 69,000,000 feet board measure to the United Kingdom, comparing with 56,000,000 feet in 1927. This was a far greater proportion than that shipped by eastern Canadian provinces and was done despite the fact that Russia was dumping lumber in the United Kingdom at any price that could be obtained.

Eggs, apples, hops and canned salmon were dealt with in order by Mr. Cole, who showed each was in a healthy condition except the salmon trade, which had fallen off 3,000,000 pounds last year, chiefly due to the lower pack in British Columbia, the decreased purchasing power of the United Kingdom and the influx of Siberian salmon.

In conclusion, Mr. Cole stated that practically one-quarter of Canada's population was dependent for its existence upon the country's export trade. To continue prosperous this trade must be maintained and developed.

W. A. Jamieson, who presided over the gathering, invited any who were interested in export trade with the U.K. to interview Mr. Cole and discuss it with him.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, proposed by R. W. Mayhew and seconded by Major H. C. Holmes.

HELEN WITH THE HIGH HAND

AN IDYLIC DIVERSION

By ARNOLD BENNETT

Their little plot! In yielding to the impulse to tell her that Helen was unaware of her presence in the house he had forgotten that he had made it excessively difficult for him to demolish the said plot. He could not get one moment away that the plot had better be abandoned. Some men, doubtless, could. But he could not. He was scarcely that kind of man. His proper course would have been to relate Mrs. Procter exactly what had passed between himself and Helen, and trust to her common sense. Unhappily, with the intention of pleasing her, or reassuring her, or something equally silly, he had lied to her and rendered the truth impracticable. However, he did not seem to care much. He had already pushed Helen's affairs back again to quite a secondary position.

"I suppose you think it'll be all right, miss," he said carelessly—"ye going up to Mrs. Swetnam's o' that'n, and—"

"Helen on me," said she, silencing him.

Thus, without a pang, he left Helen to her fate.

They had touched the ground-floor. "Thank you very much, Mr. Ollershaw," said Mrs. Procter. "Good-night. I'll make the best of my way home."

Curious, how sorry he felt at this announcement! He had become quite accustomed to being a conspirator with her in the vast house lighted by a single candle, and he did not relish the end of the performance.

"I'll step along wi' ye," said he. "Oh no!" she said. "I really can't allow."

"Allow what?"

"Allow you to inconvenience yourself like that for me."

"Pooh!" said he.

And he, who had never in his life seen a lady to her door, set out on the business as though he had done nothing else every night of his life, as was a fine night. The leading pearls of the string bore down on the middle-aged pair, and passed.

"Good-night, Mrs. Procter. Good-night, Mr. Ollershaw."

"Good-night, Mrs. Procter. Good-night, Mr. Ollershaw."

And so it went on. And the string, laughing and talking, gradually disappeared dimming in the distance towards Bursley.

"I suppose you know you've done it this time?" observed Mrs. Procter.

It was a dark saying, but James fully understood it. He felt as though he had drunk champagne. As well he might, for a sheep as a lamb! he said to himself. And deliberately squeezed the royal arm.

Nothing violent happened. He had rather expected the heavens to fall, or at least Mrs. Procter would exclaim: "Unhand me, monster!" But nothing violent happened.

"And this is me, James Ollershaw!" he said to himself, still squeezing.

BEDTIME STORY Uncle Wiggly's May Pole

(Copyright, 1930)

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Uncle Wiggly looked at the evening paper from which he had just read the bedtime story for some of his little bunny children. There was a look of surprise on Uncle Wiggly's funny face.

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane Pussycat as she picked up the little Wiggly. "The smallest of the rabbit children who had fallen asleep before her father had finished the story."

"Did you read in the paper something about the Bob Cat and Uncle Wiggly?" whispered the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Oh, no," Mr. Longears answered. "But I see by the paper that this is the second day of June."

"Why of course this is June!" said his wife. "Lovely June with a silver moon and roses in bloom will come pretty soon!" The lady rabbit began to sing.

"Don't me! How quickly time goes!" murmured Uncle Wiggly. "I had no idea we were in June. I suppose it is late now, and he seemed a little late."

"Too late for what?" asked Nurse Jane, who had taken Wiggly up to bed and who had now come back to pick up another little sleepy rabbit.

"Oh, no," Mr. Longears answered. "But I see by the paper that this is the second day of June."

"Why of course this is June!" said his wife. "Lovely June with a silver moon and roses in bloom will come pretty soon!" The lady rabbit began to sing.

"Don't me! How quickly time goes!" murmured Uncle Wiggly. "I had no idea we were in June. I suppose it is late now, and he seemed a little late."

"Too late for what?" asked Nurse Jane, who had taken Wiggly up to bed and who had now come back to pick up another little sleepy rabbit.

What's the matter, asked Nurse Jane

"Too late for a May pole," answered Uncle Wiggly. "I had it all planned to set up a May pole in front of the bunghole, fasten long ribbons of red, blue, green, pink and yellow to the pole and have our rabbit children dance a May dance around it, weaving the ribbons into sort of rainbows. Now it is too late, for this June and the month of May is passed. I'm sorry!"

"Don't be silly!" said Mrs. Longears with a laugh. "If you like you can have a May pole dance in June. May is the best time. You could even have a May dance in July if you wished."

"Yes, I suppose I could," agreed Uncle Wiggly. "And as this is only June 2nd and not too late, we'll have a May pole to-morrow."

The next day Uncle Wiggly hopped to the woods where he found a tall pole that would do very nicely to set up in front of his bunghole. Many colored ribbons could be fastened to it and his little bunny boys and girls, and all the other animals, could hop, skip and dance around it.

"This will make a fine May pole," said Mr. Longears. He tried to drag the pole along the ground but it was so large and he was so small that it could not be done. Uncle Wiggly pulled and tugged, grunted and puffed, but the pole would not move and then, all of a sudden, along came Mr. Stubbail, the kind bear daddy of Neddie and Ben. "What's the matter, Uncle Wiggly?" growled Mr. Stubbail. "You seem to be having trouble."

"Trouble? I should say so!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "I can't drag this May pole home."

"I'll help you," offered the bear. Sticking his long, sharp claws in the pole, Mr. Stubbail dug and dug, and along with Uncle Wiggly helping as much as he could.

"Thank you," Mr. Longears said to Mr. Stubbail. "Now don't you want to stay and see the May pole dance?"

"No, I shall be glad to," growled the bear. "And will help you set the pole up in the ground."

Uncle Wiggly was glad of this help. He and Mr. Stubbail dug a hole in the ground for the pole and the pole was set up. "Now don't you want to stay and see the May pole dance?"

"No, I shall be glad to," growled the bear. "And will help you set the pole up in the ground."

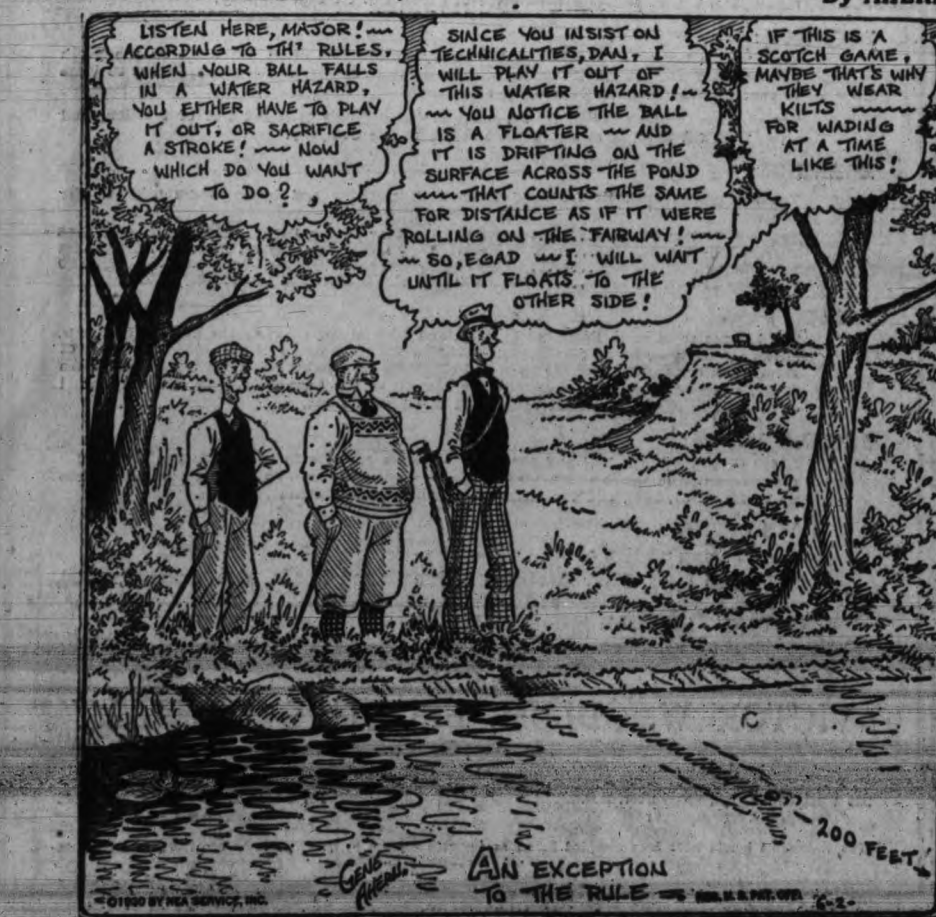

Uncle Wiggly was glad of this help. He and Mr. Stubbail dug a hole in the ground for the pole and the pole was set up. "Now don't you want to stay and see the May pole dance?"

Horoscope

TUESDAY, JUNE 3, 1930

This is rather a doubtful day in planetary direction, according to astrology. It is a time for careful policy in business.

The morning hours are most favorable to persons of constructive talent and should be devoted to the planning of new projects and the building of bridges and homes.

While the planetary government seems to promise great advance in surgery the seers warn that medicine may offer new cures that are not successful.

Chemistry is to engage more and more attention, astrologers prophesy, but the sensational results may be confined to games and explosives instead of curative agencies.

The should be an auspicious direction of the stars for housekeepers. It seems to favor home-building and interior decoration. Many lines of industry should benefit under this star which makes for better success in agriculture.

Astronomers foretell tremendous development in Canadian gardening and wide interest in the laying out of estates.

The late hours to-day are likely to be adverse, for there may be a tendency toward nervous exhaustion, weariness and irritability.

The afternoon is not an auspicious time for obtaining interviews with employers or persons whose interest is desirable.

It is well to watch the speech while this configuration continues, for entrance to a quarrel is believed to be easy.

All the signs seem to indicate a strong trend toward self-discipline. The period of time to reserve emotion and avoid excess is ending. It is declared by the seers.

Mrs. is believed to be active at this time in the way of stimulating speculation and even gambling.

Persons whose birthdays it is have the enury of unexpected joyous. Secrets of importance may be revealed before the end of the year.

Children born on this day probably will be industrious, inventive, and exceedingly successful. The father of the sign is often dual in nature and unusually gifted.

King George V of England was born on this day, 1863. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Jefferson Davis, 1868, President of the Confederacy; W. M. F. Petrie, 1853, English Egyptologist.

Wallpaper is said to date back to the year 1461.

For a Living

No Longer Can Girls Look Upon Their Jobs as a Bridge of Sighs That Reaches From the Schoolroom To the Altar, for Government Statistics Prove That Marriage No Longer Provides Economic Security

There was when marriage was about the only gainful occupation open to women. A husband was not only a Prince Charming, he was a meat ticket, a charge account at the shops. Parents heaved sighs of relief at their daughters' weddings, because they felt that they had got them safely settled in life and every girl looked forward to marriage as a safe, sure way of providing for her future.

One of the reasons given as to why women are more efficient and more successful in business is that they do not intend long to support themselves. They expect to marry a living. They regard stenography or salesmanship or accounting or whatever they do as just a bridge of sighs that reaches from the schoolroom to the altar, and so they never bother even to try to become experts in their profession.

So embedded in tradition is this idea that when a girl marries "she has somebody to take care of her," as the old phrase went, that it is a shock to learn from a bulletin issued by the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor that marriage nowadays offers "no economic security for women."

The Government publication goes on further to say: "A large proportion of families living in cities depend largely upon the earnings of women, and in many homes the entire income is earned by the wife and daughters." In a word, as the old song used to say, "everybody works but father," and even when father works he is not able alone and unaided to support the family.

So it has blasted the rosy dream of the girl who looked forward to "quitting work," as she naively expressed it, when she got married. Unless she has the luck to get a go-getter, and all men are no more invariably gifted with financial genius than they are with tenor voices or the looks of a sheik, the girl who marries nowadays has even more necessity of earning money after the wedding than she did before and instead of bettering her condition from a financial standpoint, she has made it worse, for she has added to her regular job the additional job of making a home.

The fact that the modern wife must be a crutch to her husband instead of his being a staff upon which she can lean is partly due to economic conditions which neither can control and partly to the woman's own fault.

When the man of the past was the sole breadwinner of the family, it was satisfied with bread and didn't demand cake, as it does now. In those halcyon days there were no radios to buy, no gasoline tanks to fill, no movies to attend, no night clubs to go to, none of a million things to spend money on that we have now and without which we consider life cinders, ashes and dust.

When grandma got married, unless grandma was a millionaire, she retired from the world to the kitchen and the nursery, and her only stepping out was to church and the prayer meeting and occasionally over to the neighbors'. She didn't expect to go on running around and having a good time and being noted as one of our best-dressed young matrons. She didn't have to have silk stockings to wear every day and high-heeled snakeskin shoes and chiffon lingerie and Paris clothes.

So it wasn't such a trick for grandma to pay grandmother's bills as it is for the young man of to-day to pay his flapper wife's. Maybe if the wives of to-day cost as little for their upkeep as grandma did their husbands would be able to afford them.

And maybe, as so often happens in life, the man wouldn't want the plain little thing that was within his reach and would crave the luxury that was a rank extravagance; maybe he wouldn't be satisfied with the dowdy little wife in the cheap clothes and would yearn for one all dolled up in finery. It is hard to go back to near-beer when you have a champagne thirst.

But the main lesson conveyed to women by the Government's warning that they can no longer regard marriage as "economic security," is that whatever occupation they undertake is likely to be a life work and that they must prepare themselves for it accordingly. They must not look upon their jobs as something merely temporary. They must not do the sort of work that they can just get by with. They must not be satisfied with earning only a few dollars that will buy them enough good clothes with which to snare a husband.

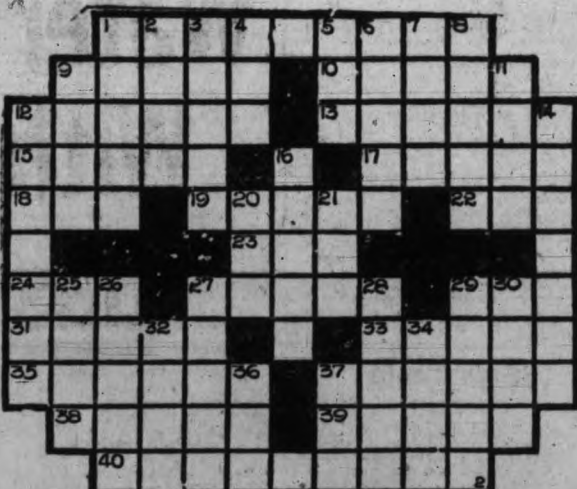

For, after they catch their husband, it is written on the cards for most of them that they are going to have to keep on earning money outside the home if they continue to live in the style to which they are accustomed or, possibly, if they continue to eat at all. They can't sit down and fold their hands and let George do it, as grandma did. They have to continue to be self-supporting and, alas, not infrequently they have to support George, too.

The average boy at school does not display more intelligence nor more energy than the average girl, but when they start out to work side by side the boys soon outdistance the girls. This is because the boy expects to have to support himself as long as he lives and he knows that his success depends upon how well he does his work and how much he knows about it. Perhaps when girls realize that they have the same necessity and that marriage is not going to emancipate them from toil, they also will become more efficient.
